NEW PARASOLS NOW READY

Mr. Bryan's Interesting Proposal.

The most important proposal that developed during the financial conference between the secretary of the treasury and the delegates of the Central and South American republics is one which has passed unnoticed by the newspapers and has found no place in the official record of the conference.

Mr. Bryan presented a proposal at a dinner given by Gen. Edward C. O'Brien, formerly minister of the United States to Uruguay, in honor of the minister of finance of Uruguay and the members of the Uruguayan delegation, looking to an interchange of credit by the government of the United States with governments within the Pan-American union that might desire to take advantage of the arrangement. The secretary of state was careful to say that he threw out the suggestion he was about to make quite in a personal and unofficial way, obviously guarding against its being regarded at this time as an administration measure or as representing even the views of any of his colleagues.

His premise was that the development of several of the South American republics was greatly hindered by the lack of credit which would enable those countries to borrow on any reasonable basis. He cited instances of governments paying eight per cent, and he could, of course, have cited many such instances and some where the rate would have been even higher. He very properly regarded this lack of credit and consequent lack of national initiative as a great loss, not alone to the countries and the people of the nations being considered, but quite as well to the people of the United States.

This interchange of credit was to be accomplished by taking from a South American nation its obligation bearing four per cent, interest and giving such a country a like amount of United States bonds bearing three per cent, interest. Our government, however, instead of making the one per cent, difference in interest rates, would devote this to the amortization of the South American bonds, which by investing the sinking fund at three per cent, would be accomplished in 47 years.

Making allowance for all the difficulties that will be immediately thought of in the consummation of such a scheme, it still deserves to be pronounced not only a daring but a really brilliant conception. It is daring because it goes beyond the conventional in government finance, but it is brilliant because it appeals to the imagination as offering something that while attended by difficulties is not impossible of realization, and if carried through successfully would be a historic act of statesmanship. The benefits to the states that took advantage of such an opportunity for useful and practical purposes would be obviously very great, as interest would not only pay a lower rate of interest than that to which they have been accustomed, but they would be under no necessity of making additional provision for the payment of the principal. On the other hand, the United States would be nothing out of pocket if our South American neighbors always made their annual payments promptly.

Nevertheless, we would repeat that Mr. Bryan has made the most interesting and stimulating suggestion that has come from the conference. It may have been regarded by the group of gentlemen who listened to it as an after-dinner stretching forth of the hand of fellowship and friendliness, somewhat Utopian so far as prospects of practical conclusion might be concerned, but it is worth examining much more closely than as a mere after-dinner address. It is, in fact, a plan to which the secretary of state has given careful thought, and instead of being merely an after-dinner ebullition of friendliness, it is quite possible that it represents the most astute and enlightened statesmanship.—National City Bank Circular.

This afternoon at 4:45 the Barre A. C. team lines up against the Richmond A. C. of Richmond at the Barre A. C. grounds on the Granite City trotting park. Gilbert, a Vermont pitcher who has pitched several games for that college this season, will be in the box for the Barre team. He has been secured by them for a permanent place on the team all summer. Gallagher, another Vermont man, will pitch for the Richmond A. C. The hour of calling the game was made later on account of giving the granite workers time to go home before going to the game. The game will start at 4:45 sharp.

For the placation of all who have had occasion for criticizing the course pursued by the aldermanic street committee with reference to the setting of curb on Currier park, the committee of the whole is expected to report at the regular session to-night a plan for altering the curb lines that will meet with everyone's approval. The whole committee will make its recommendations on the basis of a personal investigation conducted last Friday afternoon, when the city fathers were met in conference at the park by a number of abutting landowners. It is proposed to extend the curbing on two sides to conform with a prospective line which the city hopes to establish in uniformity along East and Park streets sometime in the near future.

Unless unforeseen circumstances combine to prevent, a session of United States naturalization court will be held in Barre late in July, when Clerk F. S. Platt and his staff will make their appearance at city hall for the reception of candidates. Unsettled industrial conditions in the Barre granite belt last spring were responsible for the fact that a large number of prospective citizens showed some hesitancy in taking out papers, a process which involves incidental expense. Most of those who were uncertain as to the duration of the strike were willing to save their court fees until a more favorable time should arrive. It is expected, therefore, that there will be an influx of candidates from Barre and Barre Town.

Flowers contributed to the flower table at the library during the past week are as follows: Blue iris, Mayweed, great angelica, Emily Dodge; hop clover, Pauline Beck; blue vetch, small bedstraw, water leaf, bladder campion, Mayweed, black-eyed Susan, paint brush, daisy clover, mustard, buttercup, white, daisy, butter and eggs, alfalfa, Madeline Ross; hilly berry, small bedstraw, Bessie Maynard; shin leaf, golden ragwort, small bedstraw, sheep sorrel, Esther Alexander; white sweet clover, self herb, wild pansy, common mallow, Lucia Pironi; bougainvillea, water leaf, Cleora and Leone Reynolds; white daisy, red clover, alisk clover, Philadelphia fleabane, Margaret Reland; black mustard, Valira Gongo; English plantain, common mullein, false flax, sweet-scented bedstraw; senecio, rough cinquefoil.

Rev. E. F. Newell, pastor of the Hedding church, and Mrs. Newell expect to pass a part of their summer vacation at Centerville, Mass., Cap Cod, where Mrs. Newell's mother and relatives live. It is the place where Rev. E. F. Newell first began to preach. If anyone should wish to get in touch with the pastor of the Hedding church while he is away a telephone message or a telegram will reach him at Nathan Beards's store, Centerville, Mass., Cape Cod. All classes in the Sunday school and the Thursday evening prayer meetings at the Hedding church are to be well cared for by Alvin Gates, the Sunday school superintendent, and different leaders are to take charge of the mid-week services, two of them to be led by the preacher sons of E. W. Wells. The union Sunday morning services for the next three weeks are to be held at the Baptist church and the pastor of the Hedding church will be glad to know that a large number of his people attend. Rev. Mr. Newell will give a lecture at St. Albans this evening in connection with the ministers' meeting to be held at the Methodist church in that city. The subject of the lecture will be: "The Greatest Religious Genius of the Anglo-Saxon Race."

A clipping from the Casa Grande Valley (Ariz.) Dispatch of recent date, under the heading, "Boy Called Home," will be read with interest, etc., by Barre people: "D. J. Boyce expects to leave shortly for Barre, Vt., where he has business to transact in connection with the estate of a deceased uncle. Mr. Boyce will probably be away all summer. His brothers are very anxious that he return to Vermont to reside, but the Casa Grande people feel that they cannot afford to lose him and suggest that he induce his brothers to come back with him and join us in the rebuilding of our great valley. It has leaked out that Mr. Boyce was captain of Co. E, Vermont state guard at the time of the Spanish-American war, and was called to the front with his company. His enlistment in the home guards had expired, but when war broke out he re-enlisted. Fate decreed that he should not reach Cuba, as the war was ended before they could get away from Chickamauga. Boyce's military ability is shown by the fact that he has been offered a position of captain of marines by the U. S. government."

Roadside signs pointing the tourists' way to Hotel Barre are being placed in position this week on all of the main highways leading to this city. Attractively decorated signs with an arrow which is calculated to leave the passerby no longer in doubt as to where most excellent hotel accommodations may be obtained. One of the valuable spans of chestnut draft horses owned by W. H. Ward, the ice dealer, shuffled off this well known mortal coil early to-day, leaving Mr. Ward the loser by $350. Originally the pair was valued at $750 or thereabouts and whenever they were hitched to go on dress parade through the streets, they were objects of admiration wherever they went. The horse worked with its mate yesterday and when the keeper left the barn last night, it appeared to be in its usual fettle. On going to the barn this morning, the horse was found dead.

A show man's license was required this morning of a burdy gurdy man whose staccato piano music has furnished amusement for children and others about town since Saturday. The presence of the music master and his retinue of parrots, monkeys, etc., came to the notice of the authorities and a fine question as to the nature of the license which should be issued developed. When it transpired that people were allowed to look at the picturesque looking cockatoo and pass the bromide remark that "there ain't no such bird," as well as to purchase whistles that most artfully imitate any animal, or bird, it was decided that the burdy gurdy owner is a showman and he was assessed accordingly.

A revival of the popular local series between the Barre A. C. and the Italian A. C. is an assured sporting fixture for the season of 1916, as a result of negotiations completed this morning by committees representing the two clubs. Some of the details incident to the agreement, such as restrictions as to the number of men and the personnel of the teams, remain to be adjusted, but bookings have been made for the entire season and the first game is to be the big holiday feature next Monday afternoon, when the I. A. C. meets the B. A. C. at the Ayres street park. There will be two games in July and the remaining three games will be played in quick succession in August. The 40-40 team is to be used in dividing the gate between winner and loser in each game. The B. A. C. committee consists of Henry Petrie, David McDonald, Deane Padon and Silvio Goulden, while the Italian club is represented by Angelo Battisti, Harry Calogini and Aldemaro Rossi.

The wooden "Rialto" bridge, which is soon to be replaced by a modern steel span, caught afire last evening shortly after eight o'clock and but for the keen eye of M.
